

Jason Kraft

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT
FIRST INAUGURAL ADDRESS
MARCH 4, 1933

frankly and boldly

I am convinced

an optimist can deny the dark realities of

We are stricken by no plague of locusts. C

They have no vision

honesty, on honor, on the sacredness of obligations, without them it cannot live.

Our greatest people face it wisely and courageously

Hand in hand w

raise the values of
It can be helped by

en today are often seen supervision of all forms

. We must act and act quickly.

we address

our own

house in order

ty to establish

f a sound national economy

